Giants Return Home to Battle Yankees

BILL TERRY PINS TEAM'S CHANCE ON SCHUMACHER

Monte Pearson Goes To Mound For Slugging McCarthy-men

GAME ODDS 13 TO 10

Nearly 50,000 Present For Third Contest

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The New York Giants, bruised and battered, limped home today—to the Polo Grounds, where they hope to work the miracle and halt the march of the fence-busting New York Yankees toward a grand slam in the 1937 World Series.

Manager Bill Terry's National League Champions had sad memories of the Yankee stadium, where they were pounded for two 8-1 defeats and their ace southpaw the veteran, Carl Hubbell and the big-eared rookie Cliff Melton, were ground into the dust by Yankee hits.

The Giants believed their chances of stopping the slaughter would be improved on home territory, and Terry called on Hal Schumacher, veteran right-hander who silenced the Yankees' bats in the fifth game of the 1936 series, to again try being Horatius at the Bridge. Marse Joe McCarthy, manager of the American League champions, who walked into the locker room yesterday mumbling "two down and two to go—but I don't know when we'll get 'em," picked Monte Pearson, whose right arm failed several times during the season, to put the series in the bag.

Yanks Confident
The Yanks—who play tops at home and abroad—weren't disturbed by the transfer to the Polo grounds for three scheduled games, and were making bets that the smaller field would inspire the fence-busting trio—DiMaggio, Gehrig and Dickey—to break out in a rash of extra-base hits that would crash the Giants beyond repair.

Play By Play

FIRST INNING
YANKS: Schumacher's first pitch to Crosetti was a ball. Crosetti walked on four straight balls. The Giant infield protested the fourth. Rolfe lined to Ripple in rightfield. Crosetti ran to third base on a wild pitch by DiMaggio at bat. DiMaggio missed a curve on the outside corner for the third strike. Gehrig was out, Whitehead to McCarthy. No runs, no hits.

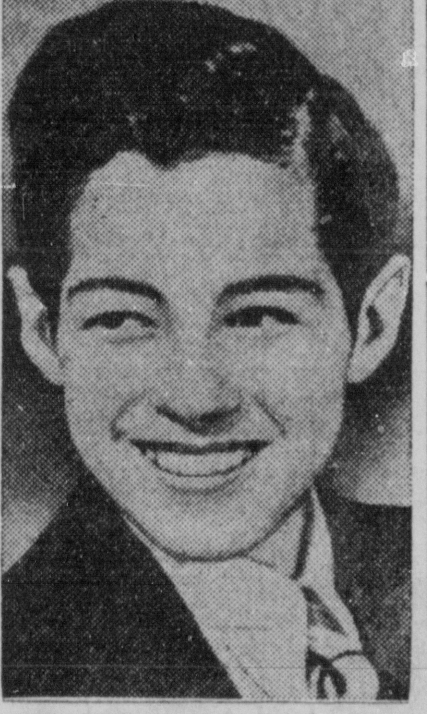

GIANTS: Moore was out, Crosetti to Gehrig. Bartell hit a high fly to DiMaggio in centerfield. Ott forced DiMaggio far back in right center for his fly. No runs, no hits.

Saved by Knife

CHRISTIAN DENZEL, 16, of York, Pa., is pictured some time before death nearly overtook him. He is recovering in Bryn Mawr Hospital, Philadelphia, after one of the rarest operations on record, in which the pericardium, the loose covering of the heart, adhered to the organ itself. The successful operation cut loose the adhesions.

MOTHER RESCUES TWO GIRLS, LOSES LEG UNDER STONE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Mrs. Ruth Powell, 29, lost her right leg today because she had saved her children, Barbara, 7 months, and Eileen, 3½, from being crushed by a 400-pound cornice falling from a four-story apartment building.

Something made Mrs. Powell glance upward just as the stone broke loose and hurtled down toward the street. In a split second, she pushed Eileen into the gutter and gave Barbara's carriage a shove that sent it rolling to safety. Then the stone struck her to the sidewalk.

Her leg was crushed so badly that an amputation had to be performed at once. Doctors said she also suffered a fractured skull and was in a critical condition. The children were unharmed.

CHURCH LEADERS HOPES FOR UNITY, AND TALK LAWS

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Steps which may lead to Episcopal co-operation in a world council of churches were considered today at the triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church here.

Some leaders expressed the hope that the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches might eventually act in unity.

The gesture toward unity was continued in reports on the interdenominational conferences held last summer at Oxford, England, and Edinburgh, Scotland. Speakers on the subject were Bishops George C. Stewart of Chicago, and W. B. Stevens of Los Angeles, and Harper Sibley, Rochester, N. Y.; Prof. Howard G. Robbins, New York, and Clifford P. Morehouse, editor of the Living Church.

The house of deputies was the first to consider the question of changing the church canons on marriage and divorce.

After a debate which involved questions of parliamentary law, the deputies voted to have a resolution which would make less stringent the church's attitude toward remarriage of divorced persons brought before the convention within three days.

A companion resolution would countenance action of state legislatures in enacting statutes requiring physical examination before marriage.

FALSE TEETH KILL MAN

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 8.—(UP)—His false teeth jammed into his windpipe, William Gillis, 65, choked to death in an automobile crash today.

Wife Prepares to Join Flyer in Salamanca

CANNES, France, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Mrs. Harold E. Dahl planned today to give up her job at a Riviera casino and rush to her aviator husband who was saved from death before a Nationalist firing squad by the pardon of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The beautiful, platinum blonde night club singer was overcome with joy when she received the news that her husband's life had been spared, though he had been sentenced to death by a court martial.

"I'm so happy. . . so happy . . . so madly happy," she said through her tears.

Her emotion was so great that she was unable to speak when a United Press staff correspondent broke the news. She was sitting in the drawing room of her apartment with the Countess De Pourtales and a few other friends.

China Maps Offensive At Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The Chinese high command on the Shanghai front is preparing for the most gigantic offensive ever essayed by a Chinese army, it was disclosed today.

Japanese army, navy and marine authorities, learning of the plan, rushed thousands of men to all sectors of the front and Gen. Iwane Matsui, Japanese supreme commander, issued what was regarded as a private and formal army declaration of war on China.

The Chinese offensive plans and the Japanese declaration were regarded as two of the most important developments since fighting broke out in the Peiping area July 7.

It was evident that the Chinese, spurred by United States and League of Nations condemnations of Japan, were determined to put every ounce they had into a grand scale attack.

TRAIL TO CONN'S MURDERER SENDS TRIO INTO NORTH

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Lieut. R. W. Alvis of the Ohio highway patrol was enroute to Cambridge, Minn., today, on the trail of the slayers of Patrolman George Conn who was shot to death near Freeport, O., Sept. 27.

Lieutenant Alvis, going by airplane, was followed by two other patrolmen in an automobile.

An automobile identified as that used by the slayers was found burning near Cambridge yesterday.

It was identified through a dealer's bill found near the patrolman's body. The car had been stolen from William Brady of St. Paul two weeks before Patrolman Conn was killed.

OFFICIALS GREET F.D.R., RETURNING TO WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, ending a tour of the Northwest, returned to the capital at 8:30 a. m. today.

A large group of administration officials greeted the president at the station as his special train arrived.

ERROR BY PRESS AGENT, DECLARES RUDY VALLEE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The press agent who had actress Gloria Youngblood and Crooner Rudy Vallee engaged to be married agreed with Vallee today that his (the press agent's) dream soured.

After the report was released by the Goldwyn studio that the two were engaged, the singer and orchestra leader said:

"Miss Youngblood is a very charming young woman, but we are not engaged. Some publicity man's dream apparently soured."

The publicity man remained anonymous—and silent.

FOUR IN FAMILY INJURED AS TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, of New Holland Community, Has Long Cut on Head

SON'S NOSE FRACTURED

Accident Takes Place On Mt. Sterling Road

Members of the family of James Hunter, of near New Holland, were added to Pickaway county's fast-growing traffic toll Thursday evening when their automobile and another collided on Route 277 near the Pickaway-Fayette county line.

As a result of the head-on collision Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, wife of James Hunter, is suffering from an eight-inch gash on the front of her head; Lawrence Hunter, 18, driver of the family car, has a broken nose, and Ruth Hunter, 28, has cuts on the face and a bruised shoulder. Mr. Hunter is cut and bruised.

Windshield Breaks

Most of the cuts were received when the windshield on the Hunter car was broken.

Wilbur "Doc" Williams, of Waterloo, who was riding alone in the second automobile, escaped with minor injuries.

The Hunters were driving toward Mt. Sterling at 8 p. m. Thursday when the accident took place just north of the Yankeetown crossing.

All the injured were taken to Mt. Sterling for treatment.

Several other members of a Perry township family were hurt during the week-end when their car figured in a wreck. Juanita Skinner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Skinner, remains in Berger hospital with a fracture of the pelvis bone, it being broken in five places.

Earl Wallace Resting

Margaret, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dearth, was removed from the hospital to her home Friday morning. She suffered a broken left leg above the knee in a fall from a tree at her father's farm in Pickaway township.

PESKY BAT QUILTS ITS FLIGHT AFTER 14-HOUR TRAVEL

The bat that entertained persons in Common Pleas court Thursday with a 14-hour endurance flight departed from the room sometime during the night.

Robert Adkins, court bailiff, left a large window open when the courtroom was closed about 9:30 p. m.

The bat was first noticed at 7 a. m. Thursday. Throughout the day and until the time the courtroom closed it made a steady flight around the high ceiling, detouring from its course only when attempts were made to hit it with long poles.

MANY BUSINESS HOUSES PLAN FRONT DECORATION

The Chamber of Commerce calls attention of merchants to the store decorating program being carried on for the Pumpkin Show. A firm of decorators has been named as "official" by the Chamber, and to date about 40 business houses have contracted to have their store fronts brightened for the big festival, Oct. 20-23.

In return for the support of the Chamber of Commerce, the firm is giving back 25 percent of its receipts in the form of decorations on the streets.

Merchants who have not yet decided to decorate should telephone No. 7 for full particulars.

"Nuts to You, Willie Mouse!"

LIFE for Willie Mouse, pet squirrel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Britton of Greenville, Tenn., is just one dentist chair after another. Willie's front teeth began to curve backward toward the roof of his mouth and his owner carted him off to the dentist to have them ground off. The dentist said that Willie eats too much prepared food. "Nuts to you, Willie," says the dentist. "Nuts to you, too," says Willie.

Garr's $20,000 Bond Is Ordered Forfeited

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 8.—(UP)—Dr. E. S. Garr, veterinarian who admitted participating with his two brothers in assassination of Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, was sought for re-arrest today, for failure to appear at arraignment.

Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall ordered Dr. Garr's $20,000 bond forfeited. Defense counsel, however, presented an affidavit from Dr. H. B. Blaydes, LaGrange, which said Dr. Garr presently is a "person of unsound mind x x x under the influence of opiates at his home near LaGrange x x x unsafe and dangerous for his health and for the public for him to be brought into court at this time."

Defense attorneys said they would file a response to the forfeiture order later, with a request to have it set aside.

Because of Dr. Garr's absence, Judge Marshall refused to consider a motion that his trial be continued until the next term of court. He ordered trial beginning Oct. 18 of the blanket indictment which accuses Dr. Garr and brothers, Jack and Roy, of first degree murder.

The $10,000 bond of Jack Garr and $20,000 bond of Roy Garr was renewed by six bondsman.

The Garrs surrendered to police immediately after Denhardt was slain. Roy and "Doc" said they did the shooting, but in self-defense when they thought Denhardt reached for a gun. Jack said he fired no shots.

Judge Marshall, during his study of records yesterday, said "there is nothing in the record to show that Jack Garr committed any crime."

Denhardt was slain on the eve of his second trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, his fiancée and the Garr brothers' sister.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IN ELSEA CASE SET OCT. 18

On request of company attorneys, hearing on motions for a new trial in the damage suit of Mrs. Asa Elsea, Washington township, against Benedict Transportation Lines, Columbus, tentatively scheduled for Friday morning, were reassigned to Monday, Oct. 18, at 9 a. m.

Mrs. Elsea was awarded $5,666.66 by a Common Pleas court jury in her suit for $22,786 resulting from an auto-truck collision on Route 23, north of Circleville, in March, 1936. Mr. Elsea, Bernard Dowden and John McCready were killed in the wreck.

TOKYO CABINET TO HEAR HIROTA DISCUSS CRISIS

Nine-Power Treaty May Be Assailed As Outworn; Peace Pact Hit

VIEWS TO BE VITAL

Parts of Island Empire Seek Normalcy

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota addressed a cabinet council today on the crisis precipitated by United States and League of Nations condemnation of Japan's course in China.

Just before the meeting was held, a foreign office spokesman disclosed that Hirota was drafting a statement on the situation in the name of the government, and it was believed that, declining to take personal responsibility for it, he had submitted the statement to the government as a whole.

Indications increased that the result of the international criticism of Japan might be, sooner or later, a formal denunciation of the nine-power treaty concerning China's status and a flat challenge to the world to stop Japan if it could.

Declaration Voted

A group of parliamentary delegates, acting independently, voted today to issue a declaration in reply to United States pronouncements and league action. They decided to declare that the nine-power treaty and the Kellogg-Briand peace pact were both outworn and inapplicable in the present situation. They argued that China started present hostilities and therefore was the aggressor.

It was agreed, as a matter of form, to hand a copy of the declaration to Foreign Minister Hirota.

The view was taken in well informed quarters that the parliamentary declaration reflected the government's own views and might prove to be of considerable importance.

The sound effects technician of the Radio Theatre, Charles Forsyth, has the largest library of "effects" in the world but the Radio Theatre production of "Stella Dallas" to be broadcast next Monday, Oct. 11, over the Columbia network at 9 p. m. (EST) made him think. One of the background sounds of the production, starring Barbara Stanwyck, with John Boles and Anne Shirley, is a swinging gate, which is also a little bit rusty.

First of all he looked for a rusty gate in Hollywood to get an idea of the sound but none could be found. Then calling on a boyhood memory of what such a gate was like he tried every possible combination of equipment

BREAK EXPECTED IN CHICAGO CASE FOLLOWING NOTE

Ransom Demand Reported
Received By Friends of Ross Family

FEDERAL MEN SILENT

Retired Valentine Maker Gone
Since Sept. 25

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—(UP)—An early "break" in the kidnapping of Charles Ross was indicated today by insistent reports of a demand for ransom.

The demand was said to have been made three days ago. Federal agents and police refused to talk about it. Lack of activity around the Ross home indicated, however, that investigators may have turned afield in an attempt to contact the abductors or trace the letter.

The letter reportedly was addressed to one Mrs. Breckenridge, a friend of the family. Inside the main envelope, it was said, was a second envelope to be delivered to the wife of the missing retired valentine manufacturer. With it was a note informing Mrs. Breckenridge that she was to act as intermediary.

Letter from Savannah
The letter was postmarked from Savannah, Ill., on the Mississippi river in a remote section of western Illinois, about 100 miles due west from Chicago. It was addressed in care of general delivery. It was assumed Mrs. Breckenridge was informed either by telephone or telegraph that there was a letter for her at general delivery.

Breckenridges listed in telephone directory denied acquaintance with the Rosses and Ross/acquaintances said they did not know of such a friendship.

Earl J. Connelly, kidnap expert assigned to the case by the department of justice, said: "No comment. This office has nothing to say." Daniel M. Ladd, head of the Chicago office of Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Police Lieut. Thomas Kelly likewise refused to confirm or deny that a ransom demand had been received.

Persons who answered the telephone at the Ross home refused to discuss the report.

Mrs. Ross was believed to be waiting in her apartment for the first opportunity to win release of her 72-year-old husband who was abducted from his car Sept. 25. She feared for his life.

TURNEY FINED $5 AND BOUND TO COUNTY JURY

Harold Turney, negro, paid a fine of $5 and costs to Mayor W. J. Graham on a drunk and disorderly charge and posted $50 bond when bound to the grand jury on an assault charge.

Turney was arrested last Saturday night after he had entered a S. Soloto street home and gone to sleep on a bathroom floor. The assault charge grew out of a disturbance in a beer parlor, Mayor Graham said.

How Music Affects Blood Pressure, Brain

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MUSIC IS employed in very modern institutions for the treatment of functional disorders.

It has a long record as a form of therapy—a record which is incorporated in the history of music. It is the food of love, play on it.

The effect of music on the functions of the body have been studied. Long ago the French musician, Gretry, recorded his observations on his pulse. "I placed three fingers of my right hand on the artery of my left arm and sang to myself, an air, the tempo of which was in accord with the action of my pulse: some little time afterward I sang with great ardor in a different tempo, when I distinctly felt my pulse quickening, or slackening its action to accommodate itself by degrees to the tempo of the new air."

The truth of this has been demonstrated, eliminating the personal influence. Thus when the following compositions were played, the effect on the pulse rate was recorded thus:

	Pulse Before	Pulse After
"Marche de Faust" (Gounod).....	81	87
"Marche Hongroise" (Berlioz).....	86	91
"Chant" (Wagner).....	89	93
"La Recontre Faust".....	73	83

Effect on Blood Pressure
On blood pressure, the effect of three different kinds of musical compositions was tried. The slow, tragic movements of Tchaikowski's "Death Symphony" caused a fall of blood pressure from 110 to 102. The "Toreador" from "Carmen" raised it again to 112. And the lively march of Sousa's "National Emblem" raised it to 120.

The effect of music on the brain is the subject of several anecdotes. Philippe Palma, the singer, was forever falling in debt, and one day when a particularly wrathful creditor entered his house and vituperated him, Palma sat down at the harpsichord and began to play so soothingly that the creditor tore up his account and even provided Palma with money to pay his other accounts. That is a gift worth having.

Actually, experiments show that music will either accelerate or diminish the action of the knee jerk, depending on whether it is lively or sad and showing a direct effect on nervous responses.

Music increases metabolism, increases or decreases muscular energy, depending on what kind of music is played. It accelerates respiration, lowers the threshold for sensory stimuli, and by affecting the emotions influences the internal secretions.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Charles Is Critical

"Bet your daddy don't know you're smokin' them cigarettes, and shame on you". This is what little four-year-old Master Charlie Messick said to a couple of girls he spied puffing away while leisurely sauntering about one of the big lounge rooms in a Columbus store. Charlie is the son of John and Mrs. Messick, Ashville, and is a perfectly live youngster. It is easy to surmise just how this son is being "set against" cigarette smoking, but when he grows a little older he'll remember how these girls were putting one over on dad and mom.

Work Nearly Complete

The several workmen at the Dr. Schiff office building are giving most everything "the last and final slap" and the "ready to move day" is at hand. The moon is all right, but Friday and Saturday moving, is not so good. Most everybody shies at Friday and a "Saturday flit means a short sit." So there you are, we've warned you.

100 Autos, Trucks Sold

Someone told us yesterday that something near 100 automobiles and trucks had been sold by Ashville dealers so far this year. To us that seemed like a lot, and seeing Lew Foreman sitting in his sales room not doing a thing, floors empty, we went in to see about it. Said he'd get no more machines until the new crop was ripe, which he hoped would be soon, because several were waiting for this day to come. Said business had been good so far this year and thought it would continue that way. The Ford sales agency and service station "has closed up shop" at least temporarily and the parking lot is a blank.

Coach Kauber has had but one senior, Mallory, of last year's squad to report for basketball so far. It seems that some of the most promising freshmen will get to play as regulars their first year out. Some of these boys are reported to be plenty good and some are wondering if this may not be the reason for the seniors to hesitate about reporting.

OPEN LETTERS

TO FOOTBALL DADS

FRIENDS: Tonight is your night. Your sons will be on the football field fighting for good old Circleville high school, and your place is on the player's bench. Sunbury will provide the opposition for the Red and Black warriors, and no matter how strong the invaders may be, an interesting game is promised. Coach Jack Landrum intends to use as many boys as possible; the entire squad, in fact, if the occasion permits. Each dad who attends will be placed on the bench as near his son as possible while he is not in the game. Each dad, too, will wear the number of his son's jersey on the back of his coat. Turn out dads; make your sons proud of you, and you, in turn, will be happy to say: "That was my boy who made that tackle," or "That was my youngster who completed that block," or "There goes my boy for a touchdown." It will be a thrill for all of you. Take advantage of the opportunity Circleville high school officials have provided for you.

TO LEAF-BURNERS

FOLK: The time of the year has arrived when the leaves must be burned or carried away. In the last few days many of the trees that were so beautiful during the too brief Summer have been shedding their foliage into the streets, gutters, and yards. The point I wish to mention is that all persons who burn leaves should be careful that the fires do not become dangerous. High winds are prevalent in the Fall of the year; at the present time many things are dry and powder-like. I urge you to exercise extreme care in disposing of the leaves.

TO ADRIAN YATES

LEGION COMMANDER: My congratulations are extended to you for your election as commander of Howard Hall post American Legion. With the office, a trust is bestowed on you by your buddies, and I hope that you handle it in the best manner possible. The American Legion comprised of men who carried Old Glory through the World War, is one of the greatest institutions in the United States. Its objectives and ideals are outstanding in their patriotism. Howard Hall post is just one of hundreds of subordinate posts. But it, too, has its part to play looking after the progress and welfare of our nation. I urge you and your staff of officers to do all you can to maintain Howard Hall post's place among the leaders of the Ohio department. Congratulations are offered, too, to Mrs. M. E. Thacher for her election as president of the Circleville post auxiliary. More power to her and to her official staff during the next year.

TO OFFICERS SHASTEEN, GREEN

PATROLMEN: Congratulations on your outstanding work in capturing James Evans and Jack Burbank, ending their trail of crime that has kept officers in Ohio and Eastern states on the jump for several weeks. The youths boasted of their escapades in large cities, parking the stolen car they were using near police headquarters and passing numerous officers. The trails of many criminals have ended in Circleville, due to the alertness of members of the police department. Residents should be proud of the efficiency of its officers. Councilmen made a wise step when they purchased a sub-machine gun for the department for both the protection of officers and residents.

TO HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

GENTLEMEN: A letter was sent to you this week signed by county officials urging that a traffic light be placed at the intersection of Routes 22 and 104 just west of Circleville. If you carefully check the history of this intersection in recent years you will find a long list of auto accidents resulting in fatalities and injury to many persons. Your signs are perhaps ample protection for ordinary crossings, but they have failed their purpose at that intersection. A traffic officer would have to be stationed there night and day to make motorists stop for the crossing. Motorists who are not familiar with the crossing do not realize the danger. I would suggest that you install a traffic light as soon as possible.

TO BUSINESSMEN

MERCHANTS: Circleville's annual Pumpkin Show will bring approximately 75,000 persons to this city from Wednesday noon, Oct. 20, to Saturday night, Oct. 23. Merchants should make every effort to interest those persons in making Circleville their shopping center. From the standpoint of the businessman the Circleville celebration surpasses any type of a county fair or festival. The Pumpkin Show is held on downtown streets in the shopping district. Make special window displays and offer bargains that invite visitors to inspect your stores and convince them that Circleville is the place to buy. The Pumpkin Show is an outstanding advertising event. I am pleased to note that the Retail Merchants association will cooperate to the fullest extent in adding entries to the parades. Many merchants will sponsor representatives in the beauty pageant and enter decorated cars and floats in the other parades.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Aroused before dawn by the rattle of pots and pans as Moose prepared to cook breakfast for a quartet he knew would be hungry. Lay long looking into the blazing logs of the great fireplace, stirring not until the delightfully mingled odors of coffee, bacon and eggs almost bulged out the walls. Then a dash for the pump. At home would have howled to high heaven had the water not been hot, but a camp is something else, and in that icy water was plenty of vim, vigor and vitality.

Breakfast, except on extra special occasions, has absolutely no appeal for the scrivener, and this was an extra special occasion. A great rasber of bacon, a pair of sunny side eggs, bread and butter in about equal proportions and coffee strong enough to float a silver dollar. There at the table the hosts, Bish Given, the oil and gas magnate, and Joe Burns, the jeweler, owners of the cabin along Darby creek. And Earl Smith, the barrister. Out for the night and a dawn try at the fish.

Although the evening before an inspection trip along and through the water with powerful flashlights had disclosed hundreds of great and near-great bass, blue gills et al, three hours of concerted and serious angling with everything from flies to helgramites and minnows was about as resultful as the last Republican campaign. But it was a fine night and a great morning and the lack of strikes failed to detract from a delightful occasion.

Back, then, into the ville and soon out and about the paves. Met Ed Wallace and learned that his son injured in that unfortunate auto accident, is out of danger. And within two hours did see 12 boys enroute home for lunch from school, ride bicycles through a red light on Court street as though it did not exist. All jabbering and intent on their personal affairs, unmindful of the automobiles stopped for the light or the ones that might be accepting the green as a travel signal. One car with a driver performing entirely within his legal rights might have killed a half dozen children. When, I wonder, will someone do something about those kids? My child has a bike, but she has been informed that the first time she is seen or reported riding through a stop light that she will lose the vehicle for all time. Parents, please warn your children. The situation is much more serious than you believe.

Chatted with Leslie Pontius about cameras and pictures, he being intent on taking color photos in the hills as soon as the trees take on their full gorgeous attire. At noon to the Rotary luncheon, sitting with Carl Hunter attending the first session in several weeks and apparently well started on the return to normal health.

Busied in the afternoon with affairs of finance, the tenth of the month being practically at hand. Someone once remarked, "easy come, easy go" and the expression has lived through long years even though only half right. What he should have said is, "easy or hard come, easy go."

RECKONING

By BRUCE HAMILTON
COPYRIGHT BY BRUCE HAMILTON; RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

The coroner assumed a patient look.

READ THIS FIRST:
Tim Kennedy graduated into would-be homicide from the school of a chair murderer. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther is run down by a truck, returning home a week later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow. He becomes infatuated and finally decides that Esther must die. Trying to work his wife into a state of despondency over her condition, so he can take a sudden trip, Tim feels the time for the poisoning is ripe. His plans are spoiled when Dr. Harold Archwright, Esther's uncle, in discussing Esther's condition, tells Tim he is positive she never would take her own life. During a sea cruise Tim ponders over other means of ridding himself of his wife. On shipboard he experiments to see whether he can induce Esther to have nightmares and walk in her sleep.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:
CHAPTER 22
THERE WAS a rustle and stir in the courtroom as Tim Kennedy's name was called, and necks were craned to follow his progress as he rose from the bench at the back and, shepherded by the coroner's officer, threaded his way through the crowd to the witness stand.

A whisper of communal sympathy arose, and indeed he looked a pathetic figure, rather lost in his black suit, which had apparently been bought ready-made. His face had a pallor that suggested sleepless nights, and he kept nervously stroking his mustache, as if the unconscious gesture helped him to master his emotion. He answered the preliminary questions in a subdued, almost inaudible voice, so that presently the coroner had to say to him:

"I know this is very distressing for you, Mr. Kennedy. But I want you to make an effort and speak up a little louder. I can hardly hear your answers."

"Yes, sir, I'll try to."

"That's better. . . . Would you like to sit down?"

"No, thank you. I'd prefer to stand."

"Very good. . . . Now I want you to tell me in your own way your remembrance of what happened on the evening and night of . . . the coroner referred to in his notes with practiced expedition. . . . of Sunday, Sept. 29."

Tim began hesitantly.

"It was Esther's—my wife's birthday. . . . I had arranged to finish my work early so that we could go for a run in the car. We had an early lunch, and started about half past 11."

The coroner assumed a patient look. He was accustomed to pulling up these discursive witnesses, so prone to introduce irrelevant matter with the most helpful of intentions; but the occasion called for restraint.

"We went to Brighton, and parked the car along the front. Then we went on the West Pier, to a band concert. Afterwards we had tea at the Metropole hotel."

"Did your wife appear to be in good spirits?"

"In excellent spirits. I was delighted, because ever since her accident she had been nervous about going in the car."

"Dr. Arkwright has told us about her accident. You say that since her recovery she showed a nervous fear of motoring?"

"Yes."

"But this fear was not in evidence on this particular afternoon?"

"I wouldn't say that. She was jumpy whenever we passed another car. But it did not seem to affect her for more than a moment. She was excited and happy. . . ."

"I see. . . . Please go on, Mr. Kennedy."

"We left the Metropole soon after half past 6, and got back to West Shilston at half past 8. I drove very slowly, because of her nervousness. We had dinner a little after 9."

"You dined alone?"

"Dr. Arkwright was coming, but he phoned to say that he had an emergency case, and could not come."

"What did you have for dinner?"

"It was my wife's birthday—we were celebrating. . . . Tim tried a smile, and then, as if overcome by emotion, raised his handkerchief to his face. "We started with cocktails—gin and Italian—and later we opened two bottles of champagne. And we had grouse—a friend in Scotland had sent us a brace, specially for Esther's birthday. . . . I tried to prevent her from eating more than a mouthful, but she was hungry, and I didn't want to spoil . . . her treat."

"Why did you try to restrain her?"

"Because I was afraid she might have a nightmare."

"Yes, yes." The coroner looked suddenly cross. It was clear that he had made a slip, a fact that had been evident to half the people in court for some time. But he continued smoothly enough. "I am going to ask you a few questions about that presently. I shall also recall Dr. Arkwright, but I am anxious first to establish the facts as to what happened. . . . Your wife had a good meal, then?"

"Yes."

"Now please tell me what happened afterwards?"

"We played piquet for a little in the drawing room. But we were both very tired. I don't think we played for more than half an hour. We went to bed at about a quarter to 11."

"To the same room?"

"Yes."

"I believe it was not your usual bedroom?"

"No. Our usual room was on the first floor, at the front of the house. But during the stormy weather a week or so ago a lot of soot came down the chimney. I had the chimney examined, and it was found to be in a very bad condition. We had the men in, and while they were working we moved to the spare room on the second floor, at the back."

"The back wall of the house is much deeper than the front, is it not?"

"Yes. The house is built on a slope, the ground at the front being higher. . . . Perhaps I should explain that the room we moved to was really the third floor, from the point of view of the back of the house. The kitchen is below the level of the ground floor front, though not a basement. It is simply that the ground falls away. Over the kitchen is a living room, on the level of the ground floor at the front, over that a landing and bathroom, and over that the spare room."

"Would you agree with the estimate that the distance from the spare room window to the ground is approximately 45 feet?"

"I should say that would be about right."

"And the window looks onto a paved courtyard, behind the kitchen?"

"Yes. Actually it is concrete."

"I see. . . . I understand you and your wife were occupying separate beds in this room?"

"That is so."

"Please tell me what happened when you reached the room."

"We were both very tired. . . . I wanted to give Esther a bismuth mixture. She had eaten a heavy meal, and I was uneasy about her going to bed so soon after it. But she did not want it. She said she felt like a good sleep, and I was too tired to press her. . . . as I should have done. . . ."

"Try to go on, Mr. Kennedy."

"I believe I switched off the light a little after 11 o'clock."

"Did you open the window?"

"Yes. We always slept with the window open, except in foggy weather. It is a deep window, of the casement type, opening outward, with a seat about two feet off the ground."

"Did you go to sleep quickly?"

"At once. . . . It seems I must have slept for two hours. I woke up suddenly. . . . I was still stupid with sleep, and my recollection of the first few seconds is vague. But I think the order of things was like this. . . . I heard a scuffling, bumping sound within the room. . . . Then a scream, which seemed to come from outside. . . . I remember crying aloud, 'My God, that's Esther.' Then there was a crash."

"Immediately?"

"Immediately."

"And then?"

"I was still stupid with sleep. . . . I did not at first understand what had happened. I switched on the light, and then I saw that Esther's bed was empty, and the bedclothes had been dragged off it. They were lying half on the window seat, half on the floor. . . . I rushed to the window and looked out. But I could see nothing. I cried out, 'Esther! Esther, where are you?'—or something like that. . . . I ran downstairs, as quickly as I could, and out of the house to the back. . . . Then I found her. . . . in the courtyard. . . . She seemed to be dead."

Poems That Live

THE DAY RETURNS

The day returns, my bosom burns,
The blissful day we twa did meet!
Tho' winter wild in tempest toiled,
Ne'er summer sun was half as sweet.
Than a' the pride that loads the tide,
And crosses o'er the sultry line,
Than kingly robes, than crowns and globes,
Heav'n gave me more—it made thee mine!

While day and night can bring delight,
Or Nature aught of pleasure give,
While joys above my mind can move,
For thee, and thee alone, I live!

When that grim foe of Life below
Comes in between to make us part,
The iron hand that breaks our band,
It breaks my bliss, it breaks my heart!

—Robert Burns.

SCHMIDT'S TEAM IN FINE FETTLE AFTER JOURNEY

Schindler To Give O. S. U. Team Real Battle For Scoring Honors

LINE TO DECIDE GAME

Howard Jones Makes Some Lineup Changes

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 8 — (UP) — Memories of a stunning 28 to 0 setback suffered by one of the greatest Ohio State teams in history at the hands of the University of California in the 1921 Rose Bowl game, spurred the current Scarlet and Gray grid combine here today on the eve of the first game played with a coast rival since that fateful day.

The Buck squad of 37 players arrived here shortly before noon and was scheduled for a brief limbering up drill in Olympic stadium, scene of its conflict tomorrow with the University of Southern California.

The long trans-continental trip was not regarded as any handicap to Ohio State's chances for victory. The Bucks missed only one day's practice because of the lengthy hop.

On arrival here Coach Francis A. Schmidt pronounced his entire squad in excellent condition. The Buck mentor said he would start the same eleven that swept through to an impressive triumph over Purdue a week ago.

Buckeyes Favored
Ohio State was a heavy favorite to win its third straight contest. In downing Texas Christian and Purdue, the Bucks have been far more impressive than Southern California as it won from the College of the Pacific and lost to Washington.

Although without a star back baum and Karl Kaplanoff at the line, the 'Trojans' ace, Ohio State was conceded to have better all-around balance. The heaviest advantage on the side of the Big Ten representative was its sterling line, which hasn't yielded a point yet this season.

Ohio State will lineup tomorrow with Fred Crow and Charley Ream at the ends; Alex Schoenbaum and Karl Kaplanoff at the tackles; Sol Maggied and Gus Zarnas at the guards; and Co-Captain Ralph Wolf at center.

In the backfield will be Co-Captain Jim McDonald at quarterback; Dick Nardi, hero of the Pur-Chillicothe Fertilizer Pays For Horses $5—Cows $4 Hogs, Sheep and all small animals removed. Quick service. Reverse phone charges.

Tigers Play Without Their Captain Tonight

Need for a guard replacement for Capt. Earl Garner, who has a bruised foot and will probably be unable to play against Sunbury tonight, faced Coach Jack Landrum, Friday. Garner's foot was trampled at Granville last week.

Several youths are aspiring to the post, and it is possible that several of them will be given a chance to show their ability against the Delaware county invaders. It is possible that Junior Martin will be shifted from center to guard with Jimmy Price taking the snapper-back post. Nelson and Joe Arledge, the latter a brother of firststringer Gene Arledge, are top contenders, too.

The remainder of the squad is in pretty good shape. Dave Jackson's knee has healed, and he is ready for action after watching the Granville affair from the sidelines.

Coach Landrum has not disclosed his starters, but the lineup will probably be Jackson and Fickard, ends; Mettrman and Bob Liston, tackles; Gene Arledge and J. Martin, guards; Price, center; P. Walters, quarterback; Woodward, left half; Martin Walters, right half, and Noggle, fullback.

No indication of the strength of the Sunbury team has been received by the Tiger squad. The Delaware county town usually has strong athletic teams, and tonight's gives promise of a tough struggle.

The game starts at 8 o'clock under the lights with fathers of the athletes to be honored with seats on the players' benches.

BIG TEN WATCHES LAYDEN'S SQUAD MEET ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 — (UP) — The Big Ten will discover Saturday whether Northwestern's conference champions have constructed another miracle team from the remnants of the courageous Wildcats who rose out of the mud in Dyche stadium last fall and proved Minnesota could be whipped.

Michigan is the trial horse. Although beaten 19 to 14 by a razor-sharp eleven from Michigan State, Michigan mustered the power and reserves with which to rip telling holes in Northwestern's line providing the Wildcats have not repaired all the spots weakened by graduation.

Both the Notre Dame-Illinois contest and Ohio State's stand against U. S. C. may figure in the final ratings of candidates for the mythical national football championship.

due contest, and Mike Kabealo, at the halves; and Johnny Raab at fullback.

Coach Howard Jones of Southern California announced two late changes in his lineup. Phil Gaspar was to replace Ray George at right tackle and Dennis Noor received the call at left end over the veteran Gene Hibbs, a starter in the Washington game last week. At the end opposite Noor was to be Chuck Williams and Howard Stocker was to hold down the tackle opposite Gaspar.

The remainder of the Trojan lineup had Johnny Thommassin and Miles Norton at the guards and Tony Tonelli at center.

With Schindler in the backfield were Wayne Hoffman and Mickey Anderson at the halves and Bill Sangster at fullback.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS FAMILY NIGHT OF METHODIST CONGREGATION

LEADER PRAISES CHURCH'S VALUE TO COMMUNITY

Dr. Ira Jones, Superintendent, Principal Speaker At Thursday Meeting

DINING ROOM IS FILLED Music Added To Program During Evening

A crowd surpassing expectations attended the Family Night dinner and meeting Thursday evening in First Methodist Episcopal church. A pot luck dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. Extra tables were necessary to take care of the abundance of food. Practically the entire lower floor of the church was used as a dining room. Members of the Ladies Aid were in charge of the dinner hour.

Dr. J. Ira Jones, of Columbus, superintendent of the Chillicothe district, spoke at the Family Night program following the dinner.

"More value comes to the city from each dollar spent in maintaining the church than from a dollar invested in any other manner," Dr. Jones said. His subject was "The Value and Influence of the Church in the Community."

The Rev. Charles L. Thomas, spoke briefly, centering his remarks on the poem, "The Man and The Hoe," by Edwin Markham.

Three musical numbers were presented. George Roth, Jr., and Mrs. Delos Marcy sang solos. Mrs. James P. Moffitt and Miss Ruth Moffitt sang a duet. Mrs. Ervin Leist was accompanist.

The Rev. Herman A. Sayre, pastor of the church, acted as chairman of the meeting, and explained the every-member canvass under way at the present time.

Routine business was transacted at the first quarterly conference held in the church parlor following the Family Night program.

Dr. Jones spoke on the district program and the Rev. Mr. Syare explained the program to be carried out between the present time and next Easter.

Leslie Pontius, chairman of the board of trustees, presented his annual report.

pressed belief that the government was somewhat anxious at the reaction throughout Japan of the sudden change in United States policy, particularly. They pointed out that to Japan the entire three months since the Chinese trouble started July 7 had been a period of crisis, and that the entire country was feeling it. Some sections of the country, these observers said, seemed to be longing for a return to normality.

Any declarations such as that of the members of parliament would, it was said, aid the government in its effort to unite the nation against any foreign action.

Statement Awaited

The government statement was awaited eagerly. The foreign office spokesman said that it would be issued not merely as from the foreign office — the usual course — but in the name of the imperial Japanese government as a whole.

DRIVER'S WRIST HURT, BUT CAR DOES DAMAGE TO ENTIRE COMMUNITY

LINDON, Utah, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Howard Harper's car blew a tire and this is what happened: The automobile left the road and knocked down a power line pole. The wires fell on an electric railroad wires and were short-circuited.

The short circuit started a fire in Dick Walker's service station. The station exploded. Every electric light in Lindon went out.

Lindon citizens raised the pole again and went home. But another motorist lost control of his car at the same spot. He knocked down the pole. Three homes caught fire.

Howard was treated for a sprained wrist.

System of Handicaps Might Aid Giant Nine

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Second Class Ball Clubs, at an emergency meeting today, took drastic steps to aid the benighted New York Giants in their alleged world series "battle" with the Yankees.

Termining the treatment of the Giants by the Yanks in the first two games as one of the most flagrant cases of abuse in the history of the pastime, the society drew up a plan calling for the handicapping of the American leaguers in the remaining games. This plan will be presented to Judge Landis with the plea that he put it into effect immediately. It was reported that the plan will be accompanied by a petition signed twice by all the Giants except relief pitchers Coffman, Gumbert, and Smith. These players signed it THREE times.

ORIGINAL HOME OF TWO BIG CANNONS IS SOUGHT

Does anyone know the original home of the Big Civil War cannons that were recently removed from Memorial Hall grounds to the soldiers' lot in Forest cemetery?

Edson Crites, cemetery superintendent, believes it would be interesting to have information on the activity of the cannons during the war. He understands that one, or possibly both of them saw considerable service in the War of the Rebellion.

The cannons join two others already on the lot.

LUTHERANS HEAR SPLENDID TALKS AT THEIR SESSION

The Trinity Lutheran brotherhood, in session Thursday evening at the Parish House, was privileged to hear Frank Fischer's address on "War and Rumors of War." Mr. Fischer clearly explained the aggressor's side in the present conflicts now in progress in the different parts of the world.

In addition to this timely address, Dr. G. J. Troutman gave the first of his series of short discourses on Lutheranism. His subject was "Lutheranism in Pickaway County" and he dwelt on both the present and past history of his topic.

The lunch for the evening, roast beef sandwiches, gravy, dill pickles and coffee, was served by the committee headed by George C. Griffith.

There being no second meeting in October, due to Pumpkin Show activities, the next meeting will be Nov. 4, at which time the organization will be host to a group of about 25 members of Emanuel Lutheran congregation, of Columbus.

PICKAWAY DAIRY BOARD INVESTS IN DRIER FOR MILK

Directors of the Pickaway Dairy Association, meeting Thursday night, purchased a milk drier at a cost of $6,100.

The drier will be installed in the association's new building on W. Main street, rapidly nearing completion. Dry skim milk is used by packers, in bakeries and by ice cream plants. The new equipment will mean a tremendous saving in skim milk now being wasted.

The new dairy building will be open for inspection during Pumpkin Show. Equipment will be moved into the building in November.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Removal of the entire Lawrence county board of elections, as a result of vote frauds disclosed several months ago, has been recommended to Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, it was announced today by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

The recommendation was made originally by Former Congressman A. R. Johnson, Ironton, who was appointed with former Judge A. Z.
